

I saw Jesus today
In yellow spray-paint on a black cardboard sign
Taped to a light post at the end of the road
A good spot for truckers adjusting their load

I saw Jesus today
He was hiding from the church on the hill
He still sleeps in the basement when everyone's gone
He sneaks back in for a good gospel song

You think you know him as the father's son
You think your safe but satan's already won
You hide in churches and you disavow Jews
Pray all you want but are still gonna loose

I saw Jesus today
He was helping a blind man buy some cheep wine
In a jet black Bentley a man threw a ten
The blind man took one look and said man amen

I saw Jesus today
He was standing in soup line helping beggars choose
Open your heart and you will make up your mind
You find religion and you'll surly go blind

You think you know him as the father's son
You think your safe but satan's already won
You hide in churches and you disavow Jews
Pray all you want but are still gonna loose

I Saw Jesus today
He was standing on the doorstep of a shiny new church
He knocked but nobody came
He said I'll take the strays ones with religion to blame
